

Marta Homs Riera

Dr. Homs Riera is a recognized specialist in Anesthesiology, Resuscitation and Pain Therapy. She has more than 10 years of experience in the profession and extensive training in different fields of the specialty. In this sense, he took the In Training Assessment exam and the Part I EDA exam of the European Society of Anaesthesiology. In addition, he has completed more than 40 subspecialization and continuing education courses in pain management. Currently he also has a professional Master's Degree in Pain Medicine, from the Spanish Pain Society (SED) endorsed by the European University Miguel de Cervantes.

All this has made her a great expert in Regenerative Medicine, epidural, regional and peripheral nerve blocks, joint blocks, radiofrequency treatment, treatment of neuropathic pain, regional sympathetic blocks, muscle blocks and trigger points, as well as botulinum toxin treatments.

Throughout her career she has combined her work as a nurse with an important teaching activity, currently being an adjunct professor of the Master in Nursing Anesthesia, Resuscitation and Pain Treatment at the University School of Nursing of San Juan de Dios attached to the University of Barcelona, as well as a teacher in training courses for residents of the Hospital Universitari Germans Trias i Pujol. At the same time, she also develops an important research and informative task, being author and co-author of numerous scientific articles, as well as a regular speaker at congresses of the specialty. She is currently an associate anesthesiologist and partner member of the Department of Anesthesiology, Resuscitation and Pain Treatment (DARYD) - Dexeus Pain Treatment Unit, at the Hospital Universitari Dexeus - QuironSalud Group in Barcelona.